

COLORADO POLLINATOR MONTH

HELP SUPPORT PPAN DURING POLLINATOR MONTH

June is Colorado pollinator month! Since 2017, People and Pollinators Action Network (PPAN) has worked with Colorado's governors to spearhead this designation in an effort to highlight the importance of protecting all pollinators in our state, including Colorado's thousands of species of bees, 250+ species of butterflies, and other pollinating species.

Colorado Pollinator Month offers your organization a chance to bolster these efforts while raising awareness about its own support of pollinators—from choosing organic, to creating pesticide-free pollinator habitat, to advocating for state-wide pollinator-friendly land management practices and policies.

🔍 Ways to Support PPAN ✕

- Feature a special product promotion to benefit PPAN
- Host a pollinator-themed event
- Promote CO's new Pollinator License Plate
- Promote PPAN on your website and social media

ABOUT US

People and Pollinators Action Network (PPAN) works across Colorado to promote sustainable land management practices, safeguard public health and preserve biodiversity to make our state a safe haven for all who live here—from pollinators to people.

We are the only organization working at the grassroots, municipal, and state levels to advocate for policies and practices that reduce and eliminate the use of pesticides and to create and connect swaths of pollinator-safe habitat with the intent of reversing the drastic decline of pollinator populations—upon which our very existence depends.
